

INCENDIARIES BURIED IN DUBLIN CUSTOM HOUSE

SAMSON TO BUILD MOTOR TRUCKS IN JANESVILLE UNIT

MACHINERY AND EQUIPMENT AT FLINT TO BE BROUGHT HERE.

OTHER CHANGES

Move Engineering Department to Main Plant—New Production Manager.

Announcements were made Wednesday by officials of the Samson Tractor company that machinery and equipment to be brought to the Janesville plant from Flint, Mich., for the manufacturing of Samson trucks in this city. The Samson is also moving its engineering department from the present quarters on East Milwaukee and North bluff streets to the main assembly plant on Industrial avenue.

Bringing the truck assembly machinery from Flint to Janesville will mean that one additional motor car machine will be made and assembled here along with the tractor and implements. The engineering plant is being moved to the main assembly plant chiefly for the purpose of having all engineering and production departments together for closer association. The entire machines and offices in the present quarters are to be moved.

Engineering Program

The north wing of the main office building has been set aside for the exclusive use of this department. This change carries out the original plans of the company of having the engineering department located in the main quarters which were originally designed for its use.

At the time the plant was under construction, there was an extensive engineering program under way and on account of being unable to rent any suitable quarters, the company purchased the plant of the Janesville Carriage company and fitted it up for temporary quarters for the engineering department. Just what future plans will be made is not yet announced, but it is expected that the engineering department will be moved to the new quarters.

Three months ago, C. M. Eason, vice president of the Hyatt Roller Bearing company, was transferred to the Samson division to have charge of the engineering and as time would permit, to assist in the sales and service work of the business. He has an extensive program laid out for this season, which when completed will add much to the Samson line.

Will Make Trucks Here

The company also announces, commencing June 1, and extending over several weeks, they will begin transferring to Janesville the stocks of material and equipment for the Samson trucks from the assembly plant in Flint, Mich., which they have been factoring during the last year. This is carrying out a program announced several months ago that the Samson trucks were to be manufactured at Janesville as soon as arrangements could be made for the moving down of operations of the plant, on account of general business conditions, has enabled the company to make the transfer of the truck and engineering departments to Janesville at an earlier date than had been thought possible.

Brandt Production Manager

The management also announces the appointment of A. J. Brandt as production manager, in charge of production here in Janesville and the maintenance of the plant at Vaukusa. Also C. M. Leonard has been given charge of finance and purchasing and will be in charge of the company since last fall and are now living in Janesville.

Engineers for the Samson have perfected a novel method which is being used to accurately register and tabulate draw-bar pull. The machine was built under the direction of C. M. Eason, head of the engineering department, and is equipped with huge wheels, brakes and instruments, will indicate on a chart the pulling ability of a tractor. This enables the engineers to determine the power of a tractor and put horsepower developed in a stated period.

Perfect Test Machine

There are only two other machines of this kind in the United States, it was explained Tuesday. The machine gives exact information of the horsepower rating and is important in its application for in certain states a test is required to demonstrate in field work that a tractor develops the draw-bar pull and horsepower given in the specifications.

The rating and power developed comes from the use of charts. The maximum power of a tractor can be determined, more so than with plans of agriculture implements, because the brakes can be applied which force the tractor to its utmost power. The testing machine is to be used by the Samson in the field work.

GEN. WOOD'S AUTO FALLS INTO RIVER

(By Associated Press.)

Toguesville, Maryland, June 1, (AP)—The automobile of Major General Leonard Wood, chief member of the mission investigating conditions in the Philippines, fell into the Pinaricun river here last Friday, while being ferried across the stream. General Wood escaped unhurt, but an hour was required to pull the vehicle from the water.

Many Odd Jobs.

Right now there is a lot of work in the city for men who are willing to do odd jobs. People say it is almost impossible to get men to mow lawns, work in gardens, etc. If there are men in Janesville who will do that kind of work they can find all they can do. The way to get a start along this line is through a Want Ad in the Gazette. The cost for an ad is very small and it is sure to more than pay for itself.

A Wearer of the Poppy

Madame Millerand

The red poppy of Flanders Fields, the flower immortalized in verse when it bloomed over the sleeping dead, is proving a new bond of friendship between America and France. The "Wear a Poppy" movement, sponsored by the American-France Children's League and many patriotic organizations, has received the endorsement of President Millerand of France, and the National Information Bureau here. Republic of the Flanders poppy will be worn in both nations on May 30 in memory of those who fell fighting for humanity's cause.

Madame Millerand, wife of the president of France, is in active charge of the work of the league in France. The organization is a clearing house for the relief work among the children of the war-torn areas and the funds raised through the sale of poppies will go toward the amelioration of the conditions among these children.

The poppies have been made by French orphans, and millions of them have been sent to America. Mme. Millerand has been heart and soul in relief work ever since the declaration of war. She has given many hours daily to it, and still continues to do so, despite the demands upon her time because of her position as "first lady of the land."

MATHESON BILL IS THREATENED BY GOVERNOR'S VETO

BLAINE ASKS MORGAN'S RULING ON SIX QUESTIONS.

NO HOME BREW

New Enforcement Measure Keeps Mulberger Lid on Private Stills.

(By Associated Press.)

Madison.—Manufacture of home-made wine in Wisconsin under the Matheson bill is unlawful the same as under the present Mulberger law, although search of homes to establish evidence of violation cannot be made by enforcement officers except with proper cause, Attorney General Wm. J. Morgan rules in an opinion to Gov. John J. Blaine Wednesday.

The governor placed six questions dealing with provision of the new enforcement bill before the attorney general for answer. This move on the part of Governor Blaine is made in a declaration of war against the law he will veto the prohibition measure which has been before him for his signature since Monday.

To Act in 3 Days.

What effect the decision of the attorney general will have on his position with regard to the bill will be known within the next three days. After that time, unless vetoed, the measure automatically becomes law. The opinion declares that the Matheson bill in the provisions singled out by the governor does not differ essentially from the present Mulberger law and that the questions have already been ruled on in previous opinions from the attorney general's department.

Governor Blaine asked whether "any person has the right to manufacture for his own use or for the use of his family, any wine, such as made out of grapes, clover, dandelions, elderberries, and wines made from other products."

To this the attorney general replied that "there has been no material change from the Mulberger law. Before the passage of the Matheson bill this department has ruled that such manufacture could not be made for home use, and the same ruling must be made under this law. This infant industry, home brewing, distilling, etc., is no more protected under the Matheson bill than it was under the Mulberger law."

Inquiry of Governor Blaine whether "if the bill prohibits the manufacture of such wines in private stills, the commissioner, his deputies, or any officer, has the right to search a private dwelling under the process of a search warrant" was answered in the negative.

"The bill under consideration authorizes a search only where premises are being used for unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors," the attorney general replied.

Replying to a query of the governor as to what the Matheson bill prescribed as intoxicating liquors, Attorney General Morgan said that "the interpretation of the bill is, for all practical purposes, the same as the interpretation given for the same language in the Mulberger law by your opinion while attorney general in the district attorney of Waupaca county."

(By Associated Press.)

Muller, 32, who according to the police, is a "bad check man" in Madison, Eau Claire, Chippewa, and Monona counties, was arrested by police here Tuesday after it was alleged he passed a bogus check for $100 on the Sears & Roebuck company to bind a contract whereby he was to operate their agency in Eau Claire, and one for $25 on the Milwaukee Athletic club.

YOUTH DIES, Car Plunges Down Shaft

(Special to the Gazette.)

Madison.—An inquest will probably be held over the death of William R. Allen, 15 years old, former student at the University of Wisconsin, who died Monday afternoon from injuries he sustained when he drove a Ford car down the elevator shaft of the Schoolcraft garage, plunging to the bottom of the pit.

The car turned over in its plunge of more than 30 feet and Allen was crushed beneath it. He was rushed to the hospital where he died. The elevator was being repaired and a ladder has been placed against the opening. It is believed Allen lost control of the car. The boy was sent to Trempealeau, where his parents live.

Monroe Road Work Started

(Special to the Gazette.)

Monroe.—Work on the construction of the three and a half miles of concrete road on route 42, north of Monroe, will be started this week. The contract for the work has been awarded to Miner company of Richland Center on the basis of about $32,000 per mile. W. L. Miller, a member of the firm, has taken charge and hopes to complete the work by September 1. This is the biggest step yet taken in carrying out Green county's $3,000,000 road paving program, which was approved by the voters in September, 1919.

The strip of paving to be built will be started at the south end of the strip already built on the Monroe-Monroe road and will extend as far south as Round Grove or directly west of Stearns crossing of the Illinois Central railroad.

TEACHERS PENSION BILL TIES UP HOUSE

Special Night Session to Act on Million Dollar Retirement Fund.

(By Associated Press.)

Madison.—The $1,000,000 teachers' retirement and pension fund bill tied the assembly for two hours Wednesday and then was laid over until night for action. Passage without amendment has already been given the measure by the senate.

Four amendments were offered, three of them by assemblyman Dahl, administration leader.

One of the Dahl proposals would change the bill so that no teacher receiving a salary of over $3,000 annually would come under provisions of the pension. The second proposed change calls for a referendum on the retirement fund proposition in the spring election of 1922.

Establishment of a surtax on incomes to raise the required $1,000,000 annually is called for in place of the three tenths mill tax on general property now called for in the bill by the third Dahl amendment. Assemblyman Dahl also offered the fourth amendment changing the bill so that no teacher may receive more than $50 a month as pension and calling for a referendum on the proposition.

The Morgan anti-profiteering bill was also laid over until Wednesday night's session, when a stormy time is expected.

ALLIES PLAN FOR SILESIAN SOLUTION

Special Commission to Control Territory for Next 30 Years.

(By Associated Press.)

Paris.—The latest plan for the settlement of the Upper Silesian controversy, supposedly a British suggestion, is to give Poland and Germany respectively the communities that voted in their favor at the recent plebiscite, but to hold the entire territory under control of a special commission for 30 years.

The plan the plan this commission would be appointed by the league of nations and at the end of the 30 years' period the people of the region would be given the opportunity to express their wishes.

The exchange of views between London and Paris on the question are continuing, notwithstanding the debate in the chamber of deputies. The feeling in French official circles Wednesday morning was that the allies were coming together.

The council of ambassadors again took hold of the Silesian question today and decided to send a note to Poland asking for German officers and to close the Silesian frontier and asking Poland to see that her frontier also was tightly shut.

La Follette, chairman of the Senate Finance committee. He said that the income tax was a "tax on the rich" and that the sales tax was a "tax on the poor."

Chairman Penrose declared that so far as he knew the income tax had come to stay. Senator La Follette, however, took issue with him, saying that he felt that "we have reached the beginning of the end of the income tax when a sales tax becomes as part of the revenue system."

The Wearing of the Flanders Poppy

Where once his own life blood ran red,
So let your rest be sweet and deep
In Flanders Fields.

In Flanders Fields

(Written during the second battle of Ypres, April 15, 1915. The author, whose home was in Montreal, Canada, was killed on duty in Flanders, January 29, 1918.)

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amidst the guns being.

We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you: from falling hands we throw
The torch; Be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

America's Answer

R. W. LILLARD in New York Evening Post.

Rest ye in peace, ye Flanders dead.
The light that ye so bravely led We've taken up. And we will keep
True faith with you who lie asleep
With each a cross to mark his bed,
And poppies blowing overhead.

FLAMES SET BY SINN FEIN TORCH, PLANS WELL LAID

APPROACHES TO BUILDING GUARDED TO PREVENT SAVING IT.

BOMB MILITARY

Three Killed as Soldiers Fire; Affair Elaborately Organized.

Dublin.—The Dublin custom house was set afire by a large number of Sinn Feiners at 1:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, says a statement issued from Dublin Castle at 3 p. m. By the time the fire brigade attacked the flames they had taken such a firm hold that it was doubtful if much of the building could be saved, the statement adds.

WAS ONE OF FINEST BUILDINGS IN DUBLIN

London.—The custom house in Dublin, says a dispatch from that city, was burned Wednesday afternoon. The burning adds the message, is attributed to Sinn Feiners.

The fire, says this account, started at 1:15 o'clock the flames breaking out simultaneously throughout the building which was totally destroyed. It was one of the finest buildings in Dublin.

Fire Set by Bombs

Another account states that the custom house was set on fire through bombs thrown into the building. The building was occupied by a large number of men, upon whom a fusillade was opened. Others in the immediate vicinity of the custom house also were injured.

Lorry loads of the military were bombed as they were driving to the scene. The soldiers fired machine guns, rifles and revolvers and several persons were wounded. So far as known three persons were killed.

Attack Well Organized

The affair seems to have been a most elaborately organized attack. A score of witnesses will be called as to the custom house to prevent the saving of the building.

Shortly after, Liberty Hall, the headquarters of the Irish transport workers, was set on fire and destroyed.

It was to have been heard Wednesday.

HOTTEST MAY SINCE "WAY BACK WHEN--"

'Tis the hottest May since
So say the old timers in Southern Wisconsin on noting the temperature of 85 and 90 degrees during the last three days. A score of witnesses will be called to testify against the men and it is expected that it will be the most sensational trial heard in the court house in many years.

The hot weather has its virtues despite the walls of the public.

People are going swimming and bathing. Many are going to Clear lake nearly every night for a cool dip and auto ride. It behooves the city to start preparing the bathing beaches and equipment at the city beaches.

The hot weather has aided the clothing dealer, ice men and those connected with the auto trades.

The showers and hot weather have paved the way for a bumper harvest in crops for southern Wisconsin. Small grains, oats, barley, wheat and corn have an unusual growth.

THE WEATHER

FOR WISCONSIN.

Generally fair tonight and Thursday; slightly cooler in extreme east portion tonight.

NORMALS DENIED 4-YEAR COURSES

Bill Opposed by Matheson as Making Schools Into Colleges Is Killed.

Madison.—Normal schools lost their final fight for four year courses leading to a college degree of bachelor of education in the assembly Wednesday. The Fowler bill, up for reconsideration after lengthy debate was killed 79 to 9.

Opposition to the measure was expressed by assembly members because of the belief that it would transform normal schools into colleges. Previous to the final killing of the proposed bill, the Fowler bill cutting the suggested course from four to three years was passed 48 to 40.

Assemblyman A. E. Matheson, Janesville, was one of the leaders in the fight against the bill.

"GO AND GET IT" WAS THE ORDER ON THIS STORY

There is little of the romantic in the life story of Mary Pickford. The pretty girl who thinks all she has to do to get into the movies is for the manager to look her over and be immediately fascinated and put her in star parts, has a terrible awakening. Mary Pickford went to the top in the moving picture drama by hard work and keeping everlastingly at it.

That is about all there is to genius anyway. The lazy sort die of starvation or become a nuisance to the public generally and "go-between" a little change from his friends to keep going. It's the everlasting hard work that makes for success.

That is the big thing you will get out of the life story of Mary Pickford which begins in the Gazette on Saturday.

Lord Northcliffe, publisher of 50 papers and magazines in London summoned his editor in chief one day:

"Who is the greatest moving picture star in the world?"

"Mary or woman?" cautiously asked the editor.

"Woman, of course," said Lord Northcliffe.

"Mary Pickford," was the response at once.

"Make a feature story about her—not the press agent matter but her real life story, tell the girls and boys how she won her fame and the women and men who are interested and all the world is interested in the photo-drama, all about her."

There was no material. Nothing but what the press agent had said and the newspaperman had been able to glean from time to time. When Lord Northcliffe heard of it he summoned Hayden Talbot, one of the best London "Times" men and sent him to California to get the story of Mary Pickford. He did. That is why he is a newspaper man.

He went to California and wrote the story. Mary told it to him in that intimate way she has. It is being printed in the Northcliffe papers and other large newspapers of America at the same time that it will appear in the Gazette.

Are you a reader of the Gazette? Are you on its subscription list? The Gazette is one of the few newspapers printed in smaller cities that are offered all the biggest things in the way of features going. Because it is considered "An Unusual Newspaper."

SUPERVISORS AND FARM BUREAU TO JOIN IN MEETING

The agriculture committee of the Rock county board will meet with the executive committee of the Rock County Farm Bureau on May 31. It was announced Wednesday by Secretary C. E. Culver, Farm Bureau, and County Superintendent O. D. Antisdel, member of the county committee.

This meeting is one of a series of sessions planned by the two committees for the promotion of agriculture in Rock county.

There will be attending the Farm Bureau meeting held in Hanover for the town of Plymouth Tuesday night. Talks on the needs of the farmers and the results from same organization were given by Grif Richards, Wisconsin agriculture department and Secretary Culver. An excellent program was given by the Plymouth bureau.

Two meetings are to be held Wednesday night, one in Johnston and the other in Orfordville. L. G. Foster of the state division of markets will speak at the Orfordville meeting on the state tobacco pool and cooperative sales agency.

Farmers in Rock county are jubilant over the series of rain storms this week. The showers combined with the hot weather have been a determining factor in the success of this year's crops.

ONE OF BERGDOLLS CLAIMS LOYALTY

Brother Who Changed Name Denies Giving Aid to Grover.

Washington.—Efforts of the house investigating committee to locate the supposed "go-between" who furnished Grover C. Bergdoll with the cash to escape to Germany fell flat. The committee then took an indefinite recess.

Charles A. Braun, brother of the escaped slacker, was the principal witness. He changed his name to Braun because he got tired of hearing the stigma of the name Bergdoll.

Braun emphatically denied he ever had given Grover a dollar. On the contrary, he said, when he heard in a roundabout way that Grover was planning to escape, he sent his chauffeur to Grover's island to urge his brother to make no such effort. The chauffeur was unable to see Grover, he stated.

Tears Up Letters.

Braun has received letters from Grover since the slacker reached Germany. He received one several weeks ago and promptly destroyed it, he said.

"I didn't like the tone of it," he said. "It was very antagonistic to the United States."

The witness denied any knowledge of his mother's $105,000 pot of gold. As a matter of fact, he added, he hasn't been on the most intimate terms with the rest of the family since he tried to have his brother Grover, adjudged insane in 1915. He described Grover as "irrational," and said he never had been able to understand him. He also stated that Grover was "pro-German," adding that his own sympathies had always been "pro-ally."

Sells Farm to Brother.

Braun told how, in 1917, he sold a farm in Delaware county, Pa., to Grover for $43,000. He said it was his understanding that Grover wanted the farm so that he could claim exemption as a farmer.

He was asked about Grover's scheme to fit out a privateer and to fight for Germany on the high seas. Braun said he had heard the story but doubted whether Grover ever would have done much fighting. Grover liked life too well, he said, and didn't like to take risks.

Questioned further about where Grover got the money to travel Europe, Braun said he would not have been difficult for him to have collected from $50,000 to $200,000 before his flight.

E. D. Hemphill, foreman of the federal grand jury which investigated Bergdoll's escape, and Samuel D. Clyde, a member of the jury, expressed their conviction that the late D. Clarence Giboney, Bergdoll's attorney, was implicated in the escape. They told the committee they voted to indict him, but the majority did not agree, and Giboney went free.

GROVER IS LIVING PEACEABLY IN GERMANY

Mosbach, Baden.—Grover C. Bergdoll has resumed his residence in Eberbach after a vacation in various German health resorts. He declares he has no intention of leaving Germany, although friends assert Bergdoll has "had offers to take up residence in a number of other countries."

A friend of his in Mosbach said today: "We have no fear of his arrest, for the whole neighborhood would rise up to defend him."

PARK IS EQUIPPED FOR TOURIST CAMP

Monroe.—Work on equipping Lincoln park for tourists who wish to make camp has been started and is to be completed by June 1. A rest house for the comfort of people frequenting the place is to be erected. There will be tables for picnics and the bandstand will be repaired.

Pasteurization of Whey and Skim Milk Compulsory

Madison.—Compulsory pasteurization of skim milk and whey distributed from creameries and cheese factories was ordered by the assembly when it engrossed the bill granting the dairy and food commission $5,000 to enforce the provisions of an existing law. Claim was made by the dairy and food commission, J. Q. Emory, of agriculture, who addressed the assembly, that the stock markets were beginning to discriminate against hogs coming from dairy centers. Unpasteurized skim milk and whey infected hundreds of them with tuberculosis, it was charged.

Regular meeting of the L. A. F. O. E. will be held in the Eagles hall Thursday evening. A good attendance is desired.

Everybody is Wondering if Prices are Going up Again

Frankly, we don't believe they are; but the trade journals say that many prices that have already been decisively reduced may swing back to higher levels again because so many manufacturers, in order to stimulate their industries, had cut prices below production costs and below what the goods can be produced for, even under the new conditions.

Now this may be true or not. Certainly it is well within the probabilities that some prices will go up again. It is also possible that a few prices may go further down. But aside from these exceptions, which will be a small percentage of the whole, it is a generally accepted trade fact that

Public Asked to Make Suggestions and Give Aid to Permanent Memorial

Editor Gazette:

A short time ago the City Council proposed the erection of a suitable and permanent memorial to the memory of those who served in the recent world war, such memorial to take the place of the temporary structure which now stands in the Court House park. The Kiwanis club have as you know, volunteered their service in any work which may be necessary in the investigation of what would be most appropriate as such memorial and in the establishment thereof.

On behalf of the Kiwanis committee, appointed to work on this proposition, I wish to thank you for your editorial in your paper of May 23, which contained a valuable suggestion as to a fitting memorial.

Such a memorial must be permanent in character and should be so selected that it may best commemorate the splendid patriotic service and limitless sacrifice of those from this community who served in the recent world war. Although any unnecessary delay should be avoided, yet the committee feels that sufficient time should be taken to investigate all plans which may be proposed in order that the plan of action finally decided upon shall be such that it may best serve the purpose of such a memorial.

The writer has already addressed a similar communication to the American Legion and the Company M club who also make suggestions, and it may be in the minds of the members of these organizations. It is not, of course, intended that the members of these organizations should be asked to undertake the work of any portion of the work necessary in the establishment of a proper memorial, but it is deemed fitting that the committee should receive all possible suggestions from such service men, particularly in view of the fact that they can best represent their comrades who have paid the Supreme Sacrifice.

The committee from the Kiwanis club appreciates the suggestions which have been made, but would very greatly appreciate anything which might be done to secure an expression of opinion from large numbers of the citizens of this community. Although the Kiwanis committee have volunteered to sponsor the necessary work, the enterprise is, of course, that of the entire community and the committee would feel that it seems proper to you, we would be pleased to have you solicit suggestions from as many as possible of the citizens of this community.

Very sincerely yours,
ROGER C. CUNNINGHAM,
Chairman of Committee.

Members of Committee: S. C. Bostwick, Owen B. Skavlem, Otto Papke, John E. Cain, R. C. Cunningham.

MILTON COLLEGE SENIORS TO GO TO LAKE

Milton—The senior class of Milton college has leased three cottages at Lake Koshkonong, where the four-year students will spend the coming week-end away from the cares of lectures and recitations. The 21 seniors, with their faculty advisors, will leave Milton on Friday and return the following Sunday night. Prof. and Mrs. W. D. Burdick will chaperone the young people on the outing.

While the seniors are enjoying themselves at Lake Koshkonong, the college Y. M. C. A. will hold its annual week-end "retreat" at Charley Bluff Lake Koshkonong. Ray W. Sowers, acting secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will camp with the men and lead discussions on present-day moral and religious problems. Dr. L. M. Babcock, Milton, and Dr. C. E. Coon, Milton Junction, have offered the use of their cottages to the "Y" members.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our friends for their kindnesses, floral offerings, and other tokens of sympathy in our recent bereavement.

MR. & MRS. ROGERS AND FAMILY.

BELOIT MAN OWNS OLD ITALIAN MEDAL

Beloit—Diligent investigation indicates that the little bronze medal which E. W. Merrill, this city, purchased from a laborer 25 years ago, is a genuine work of art of Vittore Pisano, commonly known as Pisanello, one of the greatest Italian portrait medallists and that it was executed in ancient Rimini, Italy in 1448. The year when it was made can be plainly seen on one side of the medal.

Famous antiquarians connected with the Newberry library, the Smithsonian institute and the Philadelphia museum have inspected the medal and found it genuine, and of great historical value. Mr. Merrill has been offered large sums of money for it.

With this ultimatum the members of the Turtle Grange made a successful campaign to rid the district of these pests. The women intent on killing flies lined up against the men who had rodents as their objective.

It is estimated that more than 1,000 rats and a 1,000,000 flies were killed. When the Grange members started the organized raid on rodents, the rats left the farms. J. W. West, one of the Grange members, and Edward Zickert led the rat killing force and Mrs. Fred Wenz and Mrs. George Huggins were marshals of the other force.

The losing team will banquet the winners and the campaign against summer pests will be made again next year.

During the warm weather eat your luncheon at the D. & L. Sweet Shop.

JAPAN AND CHINA FIX UP SHANTUNG

Select Present Time as Propitious for Settlement of Differences.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington.—Japan has selected the present time as particularly propitious for a settlement of existing differences with China because for the first time in many years a cabinet has been placed in power in Peking which seems to regard a Japanese-Chinese entente as worth while.

Everybody here is watching with intense interest the new developments in the Far East for the reason that they may have on policies of the United States and other powers. The announcement in the Tokyo dispatches that Japan is willing to negotiate with China for the return of Shantung appears on the surface to contain a new development but investigation discloses that Japan has merely offered to the new Chinese government, which is still in the process of organizing, a chance to arrive at a settlement of the Shantung controversy on the basis of the Versailles peace treaty.

On Equal Basis.
The Chinese delegates at the Paris conference refused to sign the peace treaty because it awarded Shantung to Japan and indeed seemed to the Japanese offer to negotiate directly with China. But since then China has joined the League of Nations and has become a member of the council on an equal basis with Japan so that in the event that any negotiations between China and Japan over Shantung are inconsistent with the Versailles treaty or the covenant, China still has a court of last appeal. But the suspicion here is that the Japanese have been convinced of a government in China that a basis of settlement between the two countries does exist and that the opportunities for Japan and China to go hand in hand in many other Far Eastern policies will be enhanced if the world sees China and Japan settling their differences over Shantung without the intervention of a third influence.

Japan to Keep Concessions.
Of course Japan offers to give back Shantung to China by which is meant only a small piece of territory, namely, the city of Tsin-tao but Japan has refused to relinquish the various rights and concessions on both sides of the railway which penetrates the province of Shantung. To maintain Japanese rights in that region, a jurisdiction which may not be legally called "sovereignty" but amounts to the same thing is virtually asked by Japan on the ground that European governments have similar rights in other parts of China.

Japan always said she would give back the city of Tsin-tao and she merely wanted to maintain a Japanese settlement there and the international settlements in other cities in China. These were details left by the Paris peace conference for direct negotiations between Japan and China. The bitterness against Japan has prevented any Chinese government thus far from negotiating with Japan. The Japanese have offered to do so time and again. It remains to be seen whether the Chinese are ready to talk it over. If they are, then the impression here that the new Peking cabinet is friendly to the Japanese than its predecessors will be confirmed.

Reaching Working Agreement.
There is incidentally a good deal of rumor and gossip coming out of the Far East about an alliance between Japan and China, a working agreement with the Japanese for the Asiatics, but while these rumors have been cropping out ever since the Kaiser started the "Yellow Peril" idea, the only interest here is that at this time it is Japan and China really appear to be getting together. China itself is torn by civil war in which the claim of the southern rebels is that the northern government has from the days of Yuan-shi-kai been too friendly to the Japanese.

Should Japan and China settle the Shantung controversy amicably, it would remove some of the objections which have been raised in America to the Versailles treaty, for it China were satisfied with the Japanese proposals, the outside governments would have little ground for complaint.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

In your editorial column of Wednesday, May 18, you seem to be a little peeved and take the opportunity to sling mud at the Irish both here and in Ireland in the usual sly way followed by the teachers of English propaganda in this country. You do not mention just what you mean but you suggest.

"What we need now is that England should send a committee over here to investigate the negro murders and lynchings in the south."

Your stand on that question would be perfectly justified if the government of the U. S. (not the people) were following the same plan as the government (not the people) of England are and have been following at the present time and for seven hundred and fifty years past in the treatment of the negro in Ireland. So long as this government practices and encourages every form of tyranny and injustice to the negro and brings on an artificial famine causing the death by starvation in Ireland of plenty of one and a half million negroes and drives them by the thousands to England to live and when the negro population of England amounts to twenty-five million (four times the number of negroes in this country at the present time) when the Federal government orders the regulars at Port Sheridan to go out to the old White Sulphur Springs and Wentworth avenue on a Sunday afternoon when our negro friends are attending a ball game and has those same regulars turn a machine gun on these negroes and kill them, the Federal government takes the convicts from Atlanta and Leavenworth and puts them in black and tan uniforms, arms them with live and style rifles and pistols, tells them to shoot up and burn the negro cabins and towns in the south, to murder the women and pickaninnies, and when they meet a negro minister, he is shot to his head and blow out his brains, then excuse this black and tan convict by saying he was intoxicated or insane, as the case may be, then, with the English people be justified in sending a committee here to look into conditions in the South. But that time will never come. Uncle Sam happens to be perfectly just and loves all his children, as John Boyle O'Reilly, the Irish patriot and poet, said in speaking of what made an American: "The love of the land, no matter what birth or what race or what creed." And thank God we do live under the stars and stripes. Like any other large family, there are times when some of Uncle Sam's children start something they cannot finish for they are human. I know this is a case of wasted time and energy because no argument logic can convince the Gazette or the "daughters of the American Revolution" or the "Pilgrims" that there is any right or justice or room for an argument on the Irish question. Lloyd George and the cultured English aristocracy have said that those stories of atrocities committed by crown forces in Ireland are a tissue of falsehoods be jove. They have spoken again and settled that question. There is nothing more to be said.

WOMEN SEEK FULL RIGHTS IN STATE

Legislators Argue Removal of Discriminations Might be Dangerous.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison.—Equal rights for women and the removal of all legal discriminations against the newly enfranchised sex might prove a dangerous privilege, it was brought out before the senate judiciary committee Tuesday in its hearing on a measure introduced at the request of women's organizations.

Under the present wording of the bill a married woman would have the same right to choose her place of residence as the husband, argued Senator Huber.

"That would throw our divorce laws into confusion," Senator Severance suggested. "A woman might leave her husband and he could not sue for divorce on account of abandonment."

Representatives of women's organizations expressed themselves as willing to amend the bill so as to make it apply largely to voting propositions.

Jury service is also included in the bill. This feature has already been voted down by the assembly. The complete bill follows:

"Women shall have the same rights and privileges under the law as men in the exercise of suffrage, freedom of contract, choice of residence, jury service, holding office, holding and conveying property, care and custody of children, and in all other respects."

The various courts, executive and administrative officers shall construe the statutes where the masculine gender is used to include the feminine gender unless such construction will deny to females the special protection and privileges which they now enjoy for the general welfare.

The courts, executive and administrative officers shall make all necessary rules and provisions to carry out the intent and purposes of this statute."

BATHING SUITS
The new bathing suits for women, Misses and children are here, also shoes, bathing caps and accessories. Get ready for that dip. Ready-to-wear section, Main floor.

J. M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

Representatives of women's organizations expressed themselves as legislators have temporarily held up action on Attorney General William J. Morgan's anti-prostitute bill, which has been reported for passage by the judiciary committee of the lower house. They are afraid that the measure, if passed, might open the way to prosecutions by the attorney general of cooperative agricultural organizations, and particularly milk producers' associations.

The bill has been ordered put on Wednesday's calendar and Attorney General Morgan will be invited to address the assembly and explain the measure.

SENATE REFUSES TO REDUCE NAVY SIZE

(By Associated Press.)
Washington—The senate by a vote of 45 to 23 refused Tuesday to reduce the enlisted personnel of the navy from 120,000 to 100,000 men and in subsequent votes sustained the chairman of the committee on naval affairs on other important questions. Party lines were forgotten. 32 republicans and 13 democrats voting for the navy of 120,000 men, and 12 republicans and 10 democrats voting for the 100,000 maximum fixed by the bill as it was passed in the house. Both Senate Lodge and Underwood, the party leaders of the senate, supported the committee in its advocacy of the larger personnel.

Senators Lister and La Follette voted a personal vote of 100,000 men. Resuming consideration of the naval bill Wednesday, the senate adopted an amendment by Senator McLean, republican, Connecticut, which would authorize the expenditure for submarine construction of part of the $30,000,000 carried for continuing the 1916 building program.

With a crew of three men on the job, Chief Con. J. Murphy is directing the complete over-hauling and repair of the fire alarm telegraph system of the city. Broken brackets and insulators are being replaced and new pieces of wire are being put in where necessary. The work will probably require two weeks.

The Spring Brook truck and the chief's car were sent to the barn fire at Leysen Tuesday night. Sixty gallons of chemicals were used and a tank on the car was pumped dry within five minutes. Chief Murphy gives credit to the bucket brigade of farmers for saving the house and other farm buildings.

DON'T USE CUT-OUTS, ADVICE OF POLICE

Warning to motorists to discontinue the practice of using cut-outs in the city limits was issued Wednesday by Chief of Police Thomas McGraw. Although most of the late model cars are not equipped with cut-outs, there are still a number of machines so fitted, he says, that when opened up they create an unnecessary roar. Motorcycle Officer Merton Miller has cautioned many against the practice during the past few weeks and unless it is stopped, a few offenders are apt to be taken to court.

VISITING NURSE SEEKS DRESSINGS

A plea for the donation of muslin or linen cloths suitable for surgical dressings is made by Mrs. Emma Harvey, city visiting nurse, in the hope of cutting down the amount which has to be purchased. The cloths, which must be clean, may be left at her office in this city hall or at the city clerk's office.

Dr. N. L. Sage Succumbs at Hospital

Dr. Norman L. Sage, 60, prominent osteopath of Janesville, died at Mercy hospital at 3:10 o'clock Wednesday afternoon after an illness of only a week. Death came as a surprise and a shock to the many friends he has made during his short practice in the city.

Dr. Sage came to Janesville several years ago and after practicing here for a short while went to Fort Atkinson returning here about three years ago. He had had a successful practice here.

During the World war, Dr. Sage was in British Columbia where he had extensive holdings in real estate. He is survived by his wife.

No more free lunches at the police station.
So ran the announcement Wednesday of Chief Thomas Morrissey. The practice of giving doughnuts and coffee every morning to the "sleeper's" begun by the Elks April 15, will be discontinued on account of lack of business. There were only four "sleeper's" in the city lock-up last night. Where two and three weeks ago, it was not uncommon to have from 25 to 35 there night after night. The number has fallen off gradually to around 10.

RADISHES LOOKED GOOD, BUT LOOK WHAT WAS BELOW

Milwaukee—The art of camouflage did not die with the armistice. Fannie Resnick proved by preparing a gallon jug of new moonshine in a peck basket, covered with green vegetables, for delivery to a saloonkeeper. But a home-going policeman, detecting the vegetable, decided he wanted some radishes and onions for supper and stopped Mrs. Resnick. She demurred, saying her vegetables were already sold to them. When he found the moonshine, he charged her with violation of the Mulberger law and Judge Page fined her $10. Her husband also found a still in her basement.

TREZ TO DELIVER MEMORIAL SPEECH

Samson (Knock-Down) House to be Taken to Lauderdale Lake.

Edward F. Trez, who stirred the citizens of Janesville in three oratorical addresses here during the past three days, will be the American Legion's speaker at the Memorial day exercises here next Monday evening. Trez will add invitations from 35 other places. Mr. Trez accepted that of the local Richard Ellis post before leaving for the east Tuesday night.

In deciding to return to make another of his fiery speeches, Robert Hoover's right hand man during the World war waved aside offers of money in payment for the talk, declaring: "I would never take money for making a Memorial day address. That will be my contribution to help immortalize the boys who died in France."

Mr. Trez will arrive here Sunday night in order to participate in all the exercises next Monday. In a talk before the American Legion Tuesday night, announcing that Mr. Trez had accepted, Lucian O. Holman, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, declared that all ex-service men of the city must get out and show to the world by participation in the Decoration day service what they were made of during the war.

In the Memorial day exercises at the rear of the Court house park following the parade, silken flags will be placed in the legion and to the Gold Star Mothers. Two bands will take part in the procession, the Town or City and the military band from Camp Grant.

All ex-service men will be expected to march. Use of the uniform will be preferable, but where the former soldier or sailor has no "khaki" or "blue" he is asked to parade in "civics."

Make Arrangements Now

Many men do not like to think of making their will. They seem to regard it as "the beginning of the end."

But this is not right. Every man should make his will while he is strong in mind and body. The will is a very important document and must be exactly right.

Then there is a lot of satisfaction in knowing that every possible provision has been made in case the unexpected happens.

Careful business men make their will long before they expect to die. Then, if conditions change, they make a new will and destroy the old one.

Don't put off this important duty longer.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO WITH A PERSON WHO WENT AROUND CARRYING SMALL-POX TO EVERY HOME IN JANESVILLE?

The killing of one fly now means that there will be billions of flies less before the summer is gone. Kill the hang-over winter fly. Do not let it live a minute.
If you knew a man was walking about the streets of Janesville, riding on the street cars, sitting in your kitchen, eating at the same table with you daily, moving about your office, or constantly at your side, and this man had small-pox or leprosy or scarlet fever, you would cry out and see that the proper officers placed him where he could no longer contaminate the air or carry disease to the children. But you have heard of and about a worse carrier of disease—a polluter of whole cities and counties and villages, carrying the germs of typhoid, of spinal meningitis, of scarlet fever, of bone-breaking, body-destroying malaria, clothed in filth, walking across the food you are eating or about to eat, tramping with polluted feet over fruits and foods in the stores and markets.
What are we doing about this enemy?
Are we organizing the children to know the terror of this disease-monger? Have the men with whom we trade a high regard for the health of the public by taking every precaution against the fly's reeking feet tramping over the food? There are hundreds of crippled children in the country who have been made so by infantile paralysis when the germ was carried into the child's blood by the fly. Isn't it time to stop it? Let's organize the children in Janesville for a crusade against the fly.

THE CIVILIZED DEBASEMENT OF THE STRAWBERRY.

Two orphan strawberries, cut in halves holding sadly to the narrow edge of a piece of crumbly cake constitutes the strawberry shortcake of our restaurants and resorts of food. It costs as much as a full meal did at one time. What cake bears no resemblance to the confection that once came to the table, buried in sanguinary fluid of the berry and smelling as no perfume ever from Araby the Blest. It was given the silent ovation of expectant satisfaction. Words in the presence of that cake and exclamations were poor, weak and futile. It suddenly came to one that our language was after all a mere expressionless mass of unusable phonetics. Nor was it any crime to surreptitiously remove a piece of that cake if any were left. Rather it became a praiseworthy act, a tribute to that culinary art that came to mother from several hundred years of Yankee ancestors. It had been handed down from generations and the glad news had been spread among the peoples from scores of nations who had come to live in America. It was a factor subtle yet potent putting the final sealing glass on the product of the melting pot of the races.
But that strawberry shortcake was not made from the fleshy sour thing, half green, tasting of sand and as gritty as the spinach from the ocean coast dunes of Virginia, the strawberry that comes to us in the early spring or winter from the South. The strawberry moves north in waves of attack on the family purse. Louisiana and other Gulf states first, then Arkansas and Tennessee. Then southern Illinois and finally our own Wisconsin and northern berry. Flavor improves as the berry reaches the higher latitudes. But nothing cultivated, nothing over raised can touch the perfume or the flavor of the wild, uncivilized, barbarous, happy-go-lucky berry of the sun-kissed hillside in the old pasture lot or hiding with a challenge in the white clover meadow. Subtle and reminiscent, leading one on to demand more and more, the wild strawberry, richly ripe, and plucked in the cool of the morning, has never had a rival. Civilization only has made it gross. It has taken the poem away, the symphony and minor chords are gone, and where it was a benediction the strawberry has become a pitiable, super-fat and flabby thing, debased by culture and education, living on its reputation and pursued by thousands in the deferred hope that some day out of the chases of experimenting cooks, will come a shortcake like mother used to make.

CHANGING NATIONALITY.

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN
Washington, D.C.—Suppose you had been born a Frenchman, suddenly and violently converted into a German, and then turned into a Frenchman again. How would you have felt about it?
That question could be asked of many an elderly person in the province of Alsace-Lorraine which Germany took away from France in 1870, and which France has regained. The French Government is now engaged in making the regained provinces over into a part of France.
If the feeling of nationalism were as strong as it is supposed to be, and sometimes becomes under the influence of war propaganda, this change ought to cause much rejoicing on the part of some of the inhabitants of the famous province and much weeping and gnashing of teeth on the part of the others.
According to American observers recently returned from Europe, there is little of either. The typical inhabitant of Alsace-Lorraine is a placid peasant who cares little whether his government is French or German, who only wants to be left in peace to plow and plant. This great emotion of nationalism about which the diplomats and the newspapers make such a fuss does not mean much to him. He cares little whether the world at large be a German or a Frenchman. But he is distinctly tired of being a world problem and hopes that more wars will be fought about him.
The impressions of an American journalist who has just completed a walking trip through Alsace-Lorraine throw an interesting impartial light on these provinces. He says Alsaitians and Lorrainers did not as a rule consider themselves "oppressed" under German rule nor are they now completely satisfied with French government.

A person speaking both French and German can soon discover for himself that good administration will in time smooth out the present irritation against French rule. To change the entire machinery of government for a district of such size and population is itself a big task and one which is made easier by the constant comparison between the settled pre-war administration of Germany and the partly experimental post-war administration of France. Temporarily, supreme power of government is vested in a commissioner and his executive committee, known as the Commissariat general, which have their headquarters in Strasbourg. The Commissioner is a Frenchman, but on the executive committee are found both Alsaitians and Lorrainers. German laws have now been largely replaced by the French, although in some cases the old codes are still in force. In the courts some difficulty was experienced at first because of the change of languages, and until recently proceedings in the courts and in local government were conducted in the two languages. Slowly this double language arrangement is being eliminated and now all the more important functions are conducted in French alone.

The language question has not presented as many difficulties as might have been expected. The changing of street names caused a little confusion, but both the French and German names are generally to be found on the corners. German language papers are permitted and are still more numerous than those in French. In bookstores one sees every kind of German book for sale with the noticeable exception of those on political or national themes or any other subject which might be considered propaganda. For the most part the inhabitants speak both languages. As German has been used in the schools and for all civil functions for half a century, it is natural to find it so common. But neither French nor German is the mother tongue of the native Alsaitians and Lorrainers who speak a patois of their own. It is a Germanic dialect, but cannot be said to be pure German any more than Dutch or Danish.

In the elementary schools French is now taught and used exclusively but in the higher grades German may be studied. The French feeling that it was advisable to change most of the teaching staff and scholastic system in order to accomplish this has been another cause for discontent. The French admit that the salaries paid to teachers are not as high as those paid by the Germans. In one institution the French are making great efforts to keep up the good name and reputation made by the Germans—that is in the University of Strasbourg. It is their ambition to keep this university a focal point for foreign students. Instead of the famous universities left in Germany. With this view the authorities have done everything possible to continue the German methods of work, their specialized courses of study and the research facilities—all this of course with a French faculty to replace the Germans who have been expelled. Many of the professors who have gone to Strasbourg from other universities are the most famous in their departments.

The natives of Alsace-Lorraine are a distinctive people, and are not apt to be Gallicized any more than they were Germanized. The isolated farmer who tills his land on the medieval strip system, his primitive plow always drawn by oxen, has little interest in politics so long as he can pursue his way undisturbed.

Immediately after the armistice, began the deportations of which much has been heard. The French Government gave the military authorities as one of the payoffs to deposit any German citizen who was considered to be dangerous to the success of French rule. Thousands of Germans were given only 48 hours or even less in which to dispose of their business, collect their families and goods and leave. Government figures show the total number of deported to be about 83,000 and the claim is made that fair police and compensation were given in all cases.

Both the figures and the latter assertion are denied by popular opinion, which places the number of deportations as high as 150,000. Nor have the deportations ceased altogether—more thorough investigation can be made now under the administration of the Commissariat general, and about 25 or 30 cases a month are deported. This will of course cause a few more months.

The deportation figures, though large, do not account for the decrease in population which is most noticeable in the larger cities. As compared with 1910 the losses in the four biggest cities are as follows: Strasbourg, 7 per cent; Mulhouse, 6 1/2 per cent; Metz, 5 per cent, and Colmar, 3 1/2 per cent. To explain this decrease, which is felt in all towns and villages, are war losses estimated at 445,000 killed; reported, 30,000; the present size of French garrison, 55,000 as compared with former German garrison of 75,000; and the inevitable emigration due to industrial depression and lack of prosperity.

An insight into the condition of some of the important industries of this region shows that up to now the French management has fallen far short of producing anything like the results achieved under the German regime. The Alsace region is very rich in mineral resources. In a Europe crying for coal the output of these provinces has dropped from 3,795,292 metric tons in 1913 to 2,400,000 in 1920, and that of iron from 21,000,000 to 8,000,000. Of course all German management and technical skill was dispensed with at the end of the war. French officials say that it has been impossible for them to do better in these industries on account of the amount of repair and reconstruction needed in the mines, the shorter working day and labor troubles.

If the French have fallen down in this branch they have a more successful record to point to in the potato industry. The production from the potato deposits of Alsace in 1920 was four times the output in 1912. It must be remembered in this connection that these deposits are of recent discovery and were first exploited in 1910.

When that hour comes in spontaneous outburst will come the, "O death where is thy sting? O grave where is thy victory?"
Mr. Hirst does not think that the change of being with the cement trust will stick. Anyhow we would like to know why Illinois is criticizing Wisconsin. There's Bill Thompson close at hand.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST
THE REAL CURE.
When a fellow's knocked out and he can't get about
And the doctor says, "slay there in bed."
When he's all aches and pains and the blood in his veins
Seems to flow like a fluid of lead,
You may dose him with pills and with tinctures
And squills,
But the cure for a man, after all,
Are the roses of love and the glad voices
Of the good friends who drop in to call.
Shut him up all alone, and he'll lie there and groan.
In the dusk of his dark, curtained room,
And his cheeks will grow pale, and his spirits
Will fall.
And his face reflect only the gloom;
Then no powder or pill can restore to his will
The courage to see the thing through.
What he needs is the smile of a friend for awhile
Or the good that a few flowers can do.
Any doctor will say, if you ask him today,
That with all of his wisdom and skill,
Why he'd oft be dismayed, were it not for the aid
Of the friends of the fellow who's ill.
That nothing he knows has the power of the rose,
Sent in by a good friend who cares,
To banish the gloom of an invalid's room
And lighten the pain that he bears.

Who's Who Today.

RICHARD WASHINGTON CHILD.
Like other former ambassadors at Rome, Robert Underwood Johnson, the new envoy to Italy, Richard Washington Child, is far from being a man of great wealth, and in financial matters is a very conservative. He followed a recent policy of filling diplomatic posts with editors and other literary men. Mr. Child, who was formerly editor of Colliers Weekly and who has distinguished himself as a novelist and writer of magazine stories, began his literary career by editing the Harvard Lampoon at Harvard and also as president of the Harvard Advocate. In his senior year he was librettist of the Harvard Fudding play.
As an active worker in the political field he was prominently identified with the Bull Moose party as well as with Mr. Harding's own campaign.
He was born in Worcester, Mass., in 1881. He is a member of the executive committee of the Italy-America Society.

TONSILLITIS
The common acute tonsillitis of children and young adults is an acute inflammation and swelling of the tonsils with redness of the throat and soft palate around them and usually an accumulation of yellowish white cheesy masses of secretion on the surface of the swollen tonsil at the orifices or mouths of the lacunae or follicles or crypts or openings. These masses are sometimes mistaken for the tonsils and are often mistaken by the laity for "ulcers" and the condition is wrongly known as "ulcerated sore throat." There is no such disease. The tonsils are swollen and mistaken by the laity for diphtheritic membrane, and in the early stage there may be a slight resemblance to that of diphtheria; if such a question arises a culture may be taken and sent to the laboratory when a report may be had in 12 hours.
With ordinary tonsillitis there is fever, general malaise, pain in the throat and the familiar aches and pains of acute infections generally. In children there may be little or no complaint of soreness in the throat or pain on swallowing, and indeed the entire mouth may be unrecognized unless the throat is examined. Children or young adults who have chronically diseased tonsils are liable to acute attacks of this kind at frequent intervals. When three successive attacks of tonsillitis have occurred within three years, it is high time to have the tonsils removed, if indeed some tedious yet serious systemic injury has not already been done.
The reason why tonsillitis is more prevalent in April and May than in other months is that in our universities fear of fresh air, weather, cold, dampness and exposure, we keep so thoroughly housed up and overprotected with heat that our natural resistance to infections of the respiratory tract is at a pretty low ebb in the spring.

Q. Why is Phoenix, Arizona, so named? G. A. B.
A. According to an old legend the phoenix was a bird which was consumed by fire and rose in youthfulness from its own ashes. The name seemed appropriate for Phoenix, Arizona, as this city was built on the remains of a great pre-Columbian city. In prehistoric times the Phoenix valley was a fertile land, and the city was a great center of civilization. The city was built on the remains of a great pre-Columbian city. HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, MAY 25, 1921.
Venus rules this day with kindly influences, according to astrology, while Mercury and the Sun, also, are in benefic aspect.
The morning is a time to court favor, to push business matters and to seek appointments.
The planetary government is especially lucky for the aims and ambitions of women, who are to receive many great honors from patrons as well as individuals.
Recognition of high achievements on the part of one woman is to aid all at this time, the seers' prophecy, and there will be a woman appointed to a foreign post of supreme importance. This should be a rarely lucky wedding day, since it should bring to the bride and bridegroom substantial favors from relatives and friends.
Need of money is a tremendous pouring out for relief work here at home is foreshadowed by the stars, which indicate a disaster of some sort.
Mercury, the planet that encourages common sense, will be often friendly during this month and astrologers predict that the people will greatly benefit. Even women will change their extraneous modes of dress. The Sun today gives encouragement to all who occupy high positions, since the indications are that they will achieve high standards of service. Persons whose birthdate it is may expect a busy year, but they should be on their guard against the temptation toward foolish or even dangerous romances.
Children born on this day are likely to be active and persevering. These subjects of Gemini may be inclined to waste their energy and are probably successful as employees.

Q. What do the letters S. O. S. mean when used as a wireless signal? W. E. V.

But why limit this advantage to married folks? Everyone needs a savings account and now is the best time to start one.

The colonel's eyes rested for an instant upon it. His face darkened. "Humph! A bride-roses! He must have been in Washington," he murmured. "Long ago—long ago—All at once he broke off. "Very far from here, you say," he began again. "How far is that?"

"Caroline is in Washington," responded Evelyn, very quietly. "She left here on the day before you were taken ill."

The colonel chuckled with diabolical glee.

"How long is she expected to be absent from these parts?"

Evelyn hesitated. Then she boldly took the plunge.

"She is to be gone indefinitely," she said. "A telegram yesterday announced to us her marriage to Mr. Ascroft."

"The Lord be praised!" the colonel exclaimed loudly.

He lay for a moment so quiet. All at once he turned upon Evelyn with surprising vigor. His words were ready.

"Telephone to the law offices of my friends Barry and Bledsoe, and say that Colonel Douglas desires the immediate attendance of one or both of them in his imperious style of fashion."

"Oh, but you will make yourself worse, much worse," protested Evelyn.

"Madam!" he cried fiercely, "would you deny the last request of a dying man? There is a proviso in my will that need not now meet the eyes of that poor boy."

Evelyn moved quickly and across the room to the telephone.

"In less than fifteen minutes Mr. Bledsoe will be with you," Evelyn then told the old man.

When the lawyer arrived, Evelyn herself anticipated his ring at the door bell.

"Will you walk right in, please—I think there is very little time," she said, in low hurried tones. "There are writing materials," she added, "on the table near his bedside."

The man bowed, understanding at once. "Thank you, Mrs. Marshall," he said. "However, I came prepared."

As he passed quickly out into the colonel's bedroom, Evelyn still standing just outside of the doorway in the wide hall, turned and came face to face with Maria Douglas.

"I heard only a moment ago that you were here," the girl began, "and now this!" She pointed in the direction of the door.

"What is here for?" the girl asked. "Did Cousin Marshall make you telephone to him?"

"Yes."

"Is it something about his will?"

"Yes."

Maria Douglas sat wrapped in painful thought. Presently she heaved a deep sigh.

"Poor Geoffrey!" she exclaimed. "He never lived up to what he owed to Cousin Marshall. Of course, recently everyone has supposed that his entire estate is to go to Geoffrey. There has been only one obstacle in the way—Mrs. Douglas."

"Happily, that obstacle has now been removed," said Evelyn.

Dinner Stories

A Washington man sent a small boy in his neighborhood to deliver a note to a young lady living two blocks distant. "Go give the boy a quarter and told him to hurry. After a short time the messenger returned and, handing the money to his patron, said:

"Miss Jones says she will be glad to see you tonight, but she didn't want the quarter."

The teacher had given the boys this subject for composition.

"What I would like to do if I suddenly came into possession of $10,000."

One little fellow, after chewing his penholder for some time, returned a blank sheet.

"What," cried the precious youth, "is what I'd do if I had $10,000."

"There is not going to be any more marrying in Indiana," said old Judge Daniels, a crusty old bachelor.

"Here," said his nephew, who had just got married.

"See the legislature has passed a law forbidding weak-minded persons to marry, and they are the only ones who ever think of doing such a thing."

A New York man was seeing his wife off with the children for a vacation in the country. As she got into the train he said, with the fondness of expressions, "But, my dear, won't you take some fiction to read?"

"No, sweetheart," returned the wife. "I shall depend upon your letters from home."

QUEER VOICES COME FROM A CAVE AS EDDIE LOOKS INSIDE

(Third day of "The Finding of Fard.")

"Who's to go in first?" Eddie placed his hands on his hips and stood looking at Sam for a decision. They stood in front of the entrance to Donny's cave, if you want to go."

"For a fact, neither young man seemed over-anxious for the honor of being the first to venture into the dark, mysterious hole said to be frequented by demons. "You'll admit it's ticklish business."

"You can go if you want to, Eddie," replied Sam, picking up a stone and tossing it idly into the crevice.

"I think I'm a little too fat to get through that door. I might get stuck. Maybe you better go."

"Huh—scart. Say, I guess you're the one that's scared. I ain't. An' just to show you, I'm goin' first. Here," Eddie handed Sam one end of a short piece of clothesline (which Sam accepted with a sigh of relief), that he had brought along, the other end of which he proceeded to knot to his belt. "When I pull this," he said, "you come on in."

Then he got down on his hands and knees and crawled slowly toward the small round opening in the side of the little hill, that led into the "haunted cave."

He was just about to stick his head in when suddenly he turned his face to Sam standing in back holding the end of the line.

"You want to go first, Sam?" he offered in that quivering tone. "For the third and last time."

"Aw—what's the matter—scart? I thought so. Scart? I wish I'd said I'd go first. If I'd known you was a scartty-cat!"

"Who's a scartty-cat? Gee whiz, can't you take a joke? I was only foolin' you. Here I am and Eddie again faced the entrance."

He had crawled but about a foot when he stopped suddenly.

"Did you hear that?" he whispered hoarsely to Sam.

"Hear what?" gruffly asked Sam, suspecting, perhaps, that his pal was "stalling." "Naw, I didn't and you didn't either. Go on in if you're goin'."

"But I did hear something—just like a baby cryin', an' it come from inside that cave!"

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XIV—VERMONT

The derivation of the name Vermont comes from the French "verts mountains," or green mountains, and it was likewise the French who were probably the first white men to see those lofty landmarks which so appropriately give this state its name. This was in July, 1609, when Champlain made his memorable voyage up the lake now called after him.

The first permanent settlement was made in 1724 at Brattleboro, where the Massachusetts colony established a fort as a buffer against invasion from the north. The territory used was part of what was known as the "Equivalent Lands," which were sold at public auction in Hartford for about a farthing an acre, the proceeds being donated to Yale college. Shortly after this, settlers pushed eastward from New Hampshire. This led to disputes between these two colonies as to their boundaries. Under the leadership of Ethan Allen New York's claims were resisted by a local military force, which proudly called themselves "the Green Mountain Boys." It was these men who played such a brilliant part during the Revolution.

In 1777 a formal constitution for the state was adopted and Vermonters are proud of the fact that theirs was the first of the states to prohibit slavery by constitutional provision. For a number of years Vermont remained as a separate republic, but in 1791 it was admitted to the Union as the first addition to the original 13 states.

In size Vermont has 9,564 square miles, and its congressional delegation numbers four. It thus casts four votes for the president.

WISCONSIN GETS DRIER RIGHT ALONG

Still Among Really Wet States
but Is Said to be Improving.

Madison.—Withdrawal of four federal dry agents from Wisconsin as a result of the inability of the national prohibition department to meet salary payments is having no detrimental effect in this state, Prohibition Commissioner W. Stanley Smith announces.

Enforcement of the dry laws is a local matter to be handled for the most part by local officials. Agents serve as reinforcements to this work. Additional deputies may be placed on the Wisconsin force before July 1 when the national law goes into effect, Smith said.

Wisconsin remains among the really wet states but is continually improving, according to chief deputy to Prohibition Commissioner Smith. A survey of the situation in the state shows a number of sections where enforcement is not being carried on as it should be, he says.

This condition will be remedied just as soon as sufficient district attorneys, as well as police officers, in cities, adopt a more serious attitude toward the problem, is his opinion.

Kurley is reported to be quiet as a result of the closing down of most of his mines. Other places noted for their wetness have recently been raided by deputies and the owners prosecuted. Foreigners make up by far the greater number of prohibition violators, it is reported, with operators of soft drink parlors coming next.

Legislators woke up to the realization Monday morning that the prohibition fight, which opened practically the first day of the session, has not yet been finally disposed of, when they were informed that they would be asked to pass judgment on light wines and beers Thursday.

The Pierson resolution memorializing congress "to so amend the present Volstead act as to allow the manufacture, sale, and use of beer and light wines for beverage purposes," will be up for disposition at that time.

INDIA IS BLESSED BY BRITISH RULE SAYS ORIENT EXPRESS

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago.—The British administration has been a great blessing to the teeming masses of India, Euston Rastomjee, former editor of the Oriental Review at Bombay, India, told members of the Association of Commerce at a luncheon Wednesday. Export trade from America to India multiplied seven times from 1914 to 1920, he said, while American imports increased nearly three times during the same period.

"The most compelling factors in this trade development," he explained, "are the rapid rise in the standard of living in India, the improvement in Indian agriculture, and the development of Indian industries."

Higher education has made rapid progress in India, he said. He explained the government of India act of Great Britain by which an almost autonomous government is being formed, composed of native leaders.
